MORE STANDARD LETTERS PUBLIC

Hearst Magazine Today Publishes Note Asking Archbold to Lunch with T. R.

PROMISED FINE RECEPTION

Sibley Told Magnate the President Would Be Glad of Quiet Talk

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Under the heading, "More Standard Oil Letters," Hearst's Magazine for October, just out, makes public further correspondence. Following is one of the letters:

"House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., Wednesday, January 8, 1904. My Dear Mr. Archbold:—Your telegram received. Sorry you can't run over for a day. Think it most important that you know the situation. The president was 'delighted' to know that he had been misled as to the attitude of the S. O. Co., or rather 'delighted' to know that the report was untrue. I think you can put in a very profitable hour over here. I know you told him, but I cannot repeat it.

"I much prefer that you learn the situation from the president's own lips and not from me. He urged strongly that you come over and meet him, and said he wanted you at luncheon, where he could have a quiet talk with you.

"In official life the invitation of the president is regarded in the nature of a command and our friend probably construed it so, as strongly as any one.

"Should you wish to meet him or wish not to do so please tell me and I will make excuse or arrangements, as you indicate. You will get a first-class reception.

"JOSEPH C. SIBLEY." In another letter to Archbold, dated Washington, Nov. 23, 1903, and marked "personal and confidential," Sibley says in part: "My Dear Mr. A.:—A 'Rep' U. S. senator came to me today to make a loan of $1,000. I told him I did not have it, but would try and get it for him and would let him know in a day or two. Do you want to make the investment? He is one who will do anything in the world that is right to his friends if ever needed. Please telegraph me YES or NO."

MALESTER, Okla., Sept. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt today refused to discuss the latest Hearst letters, which dragged in the ex-president in John D. Archbold's correspondence with former Congressman Sibley of Pennsylvania. The colonel said he desired to see the letters in full before replying.

WILL SHUT DOWN MILLS

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 25.—Mill officials at Lawrence, it was learned here today, will shut down the great mill buildings upon the first move on the part of the industrial workers of the world to call the threatened Ettor and Giovanitti protest strike.

WEATHER

For La Crosse and vicinity: Fair tonight and Thursday; much colder tonight with heavy frost or freezing temperature. Continued low temperature Thursday.

For Wisconsin: Fair tonight, except rain extreme east portion; much colder with heavy frost or freezing temperature west and central portion; Thursday fair, warmer west portion.

For Minnesota: Fair tonight with freezing temperature; much colder east portion; Thursday fair, warmer west portion.

For Iowa: Fair tonight with heavy frost or freezing temperature; colder east portion; Friday fair, warmer west and central portions.

Weather Conditions

The storm in the southwest yesterday is central over Wisconsin this morning and the northwestern high has moved into the plains states. These pressure changes have caused showers from the lower Missouri valley through the lake region to the middle Atlantic coast and snow in eastern South Dakota and western Minnesota. The temperature has fallen throughout the plains states and to freezing or below at most stations as far south as Dodge City, Kan. Another low is developing in the extreme northwest and the temperature is rising in that section. The normal easterly drift of these conditions will cause fair and much colder weather in this section tonight and Thursday followed by rising temperature Thursday night or Friday.

CORSET KICKS ARE CALLED TOMMY-ROT

DENVER, Col., Sept. 25.—"If you know where to throw your weight, and if you carry yourself correctly, you need not be afraid to wear corsets or high heeled shoes."

Mrs. Florence McElvain Peck, teacher of physical culture and aesthetic dancing in St. Louis, thinks that Dr. Foelkmar, who recently made charges against corsets and high heeled shoes at the Congress of Hygiene, is "dead wrong." She said today: "Of course if young girls wear corsets too small, and ill fitting, and then tie their corset strings to a bed-post to pull them tight, they will feel evil effects in after life, but I have found that good corsets, worn properly, never hurt anyone, and that high-heeled shoes have no evil effects. There is much tommy-rot about the wearing of corsets."

MADERO UNABLE TO CRUSH REVOLT

Neither Rebels Nor Federals Can Secure the Upper Hand in Mexico

MEANS U. S. INTERVENTION

Guerilla Fighting Will Continue Until Uncle Sam Is Forced to Take Hand

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—The government is not sufficiently strong to crush the rebellion, and the rebels are not strong enough to overthrow the Madero administration, so that the only outlook is an endless continuation of revolution and anarchy and ruin from one end of Mexico to the other. This will continue until Uncle Sam is forced to intervene and end it at any cost.

Worse Than Ever Intelligent and unbiased opinion thus summed up the Mexican situation today. As a matter of cold fact conditions are far worse in Mexico than they have ever been, and are getting worse all the time, except possibly that the people prefer misery under a real republican form of government to slavery under a Diaz dictatorship.

Talk of American intervention has reached the point here where the effect of actual invasion is being debated. Mexico has no money to prosecute a foreign war, and she could not mobilize an army sufficiently large to adequately oppose the large and well equipped force the United States could throw into this country in short order. The republic could be taken in quick time, even patriots concede and without great loss.

But the pacification of it and the restoration of peace and prosperity would be a far harder task, yet not impossible in the light of England's experience and the pacification of the Philippines.

Under Time Limit

In diplomatic circles just removed from the inner ring it is firmly believed that the government has been given to understand the United States that the rebels must be crushed and decent conditions brought about within a specified time. Ambassador Wilson is said to have delivered a message to that effect from President Taft to President Madero. This is a conviction with well informed men, but it cannot be proven.

President Madero is getting much sympathy these days. He is at his wits' ends. He grows more unpopular every day and knows it. At any time there is liable to be an uprising here in the capital. It was expected the sixteenth and would have come off had it not been so well advertised that the police and soldiers were ready for it.

HIDE M'ANIGAL TRAIL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 25.—Secrecy continued today to veil the trip from Los Angeles of Ortie McManigal, the government's star witness in the coming dynamite conspiracy trials. It was generally believed here, however, that numerous stops would be made enroute in order to delay his arrival, incidentally throwing off his trail anyone watching his movements and that he would be quietly brought into Indianapolis the last of this month.

OLDEST REPUBLICAN MOOSE

RIPON, Wis., Sept. 25.—Alonzo A. Loper, 83, only living survivor of four men who met in a schoolhouse here March 20, 1856, to protest against the whig and democratic parties and who were the charter members of the republican party in this state today declared for the bull moose.

TAFT PROMISES TO CUT TARIFF

President Issues Statement that He Will Revise Duties Downward if Elected

DEFENDS THE PAYNE LAW

Declares Present Measure Has Enabled Worker to Meet High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—In a campaign interview given out today, President Taft unequivocally promised a revision of the tariff downward should he be re-elected, and also an extra session of congress to bring about that revision should the republicans control the next congress.

He declared that the third party trust plan, with an unscrupulous man as president, might lead to a dictatorship that only revolution could remove.

He denied Governor Wilson's assertion that the protective tariff has put American industries in a straight jacket; declared that American working men already are more prosperous than those in Europe and asserted that the democratic wool and cotton bills would have driven American manufacturers to England and Germany.

In part President Taft said: "The republican party tariff policy is not to shut out foreign manufacturers, but to foster domestic manufacturers and to keep the American working man employed. The tariff should be revised so far as may be necessary to keep prices from being exorbitant so that the manufacturer shall secure only enough protection to pay the scale of high wages which obtains and ought to obtain in this country and secure a reasonable profit from the business.

Promises Tariff Review

"The American public may rest assured that should the republican party be restored to power in all legislative branches, all the schedules in the present tariff of which complaint is made, will be subjected to investigation without delay by a competent and impartial tariff board and to the reduction or change which may be necessary to square the rates with the facts. So far as excessive prices might be due to illegal combination, they can be dealt with under the anti-trust laws.

"The proposal of the third term party to control the trusts through federal incorporation and regulation would create the most monstrous monopoly of power in the history of the world, a power as much greater, as much more autocratic than that of a Caesar or a Napoleon, as the business interests of the twentieth century are greater, more dominant and far reaching than were those of two thousand or one hundred years ago. An unprincipled man with such power in his grasp could perpetuate his authority, perhaps under legitimate forms and become a dictator until his hold could be shaken loose only by revolution."

For World Commerce

Asked if he regarded as hopeless or useless any efforts in the direction of world commerce, President Taft said: "The record of my administration does not indicate that I regard such efforts as either hopeless or useless. On the contrary, the advances in that direction have been greater than at any previous period in our history and signally successful.

The president then cited the figures of our exports and manufactures for last year, and contrasted them with the figures for 1896, the last year under the Wilson tariff law, as administered by democrats.

"These figures seem to be sufficient reply to Governor Wilson's talk about the Payne tariff law being a straight jacket for American energy and industry," Taft said.

Taking up the high cost of living, President Taft said: "Keir Hardie, the English labor leader, said in Chicago that 33 per cent of European working men were facing starvation. As the population of Europe is three hundred and eighty millions, Mr. Hardie's statement suggests an appalling condition. That condition must indicate a much higher living cost in comparison with earnings than prevails in the United States. Increased prices in some European cities have led to riotings. Savings banks in the United States show deposits of over four billion dollars, or $45 per capita of the population. This would indicate that American workers are not only not facing starvation, but are able to pay the cost of living and also put something aside for a 'rainy day'—such as the election of a democratic president and congress, which would mean four years of 'rainy days.'"

The Payne law has had no more to do with the advancing cost of living than the trust's Atlantic cable tariff. On the contrary, it has enabled the American worker to meet the cost of living and maintain his family in comfort," Taft continued. "Farmers were never better off. Every legitimate industry is looking forward to still greater prosperity provided the nation's progress shall not be halted by the benumbing glacier of free trade or the destructive lava stream of anarchy."

"Most certainly I hold out not only

TRIES SUICIDE IN DREAM OF TORTURE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—Following an attempt at suicide in his home early today, Michael Matthews, 22, told surgeons at the Emergency hospital he dreamed he was being tortured by a gang of ruffians and rather than commit himself to further agony he determined on self-destruction. Escaping his enemies for a mere moment, Matthews said he crawled in a wounded condition to a closet and secured a revolver. Just at that moment, he declares he was recaptured and he fired. He awakened in the hospital. The bullet penetrated Matthews' left temple. Surgeons believe he will recover.

REPUBLICANS TO ELECT CHAIRMAN

County Committee Will Plan Fall Campaign at Meeting in Court-house Tonight

DEMOCRATS GETTING BUSY

Name Committees to Conduct Campaign for Davis and Coffland; Rent Headquarters

The republican county committee will hold its first meeting of this campaign tonight for the purpose of electing a new chairman, secretary and treasurer and for the appointment of campaign committees. The meeting was called today by County Chairman James Thompson and will be held in the court house at 7 o'clock. Mr. Thompson has declined to become a candidate for re-election as chairman and it will be necessary to pick some other man to fill his place.

Although there was considerable talk about the meeting in political circles today, as far as could be learned, there is no candidate for the position. Frank Winter, Judge C. L. Baldwin, J. E. Higbee and A. E. Thompson are among those mentioned as possible selections for the place but there is no strong concerted movement back of any one of these. J. K. Kidder will probably be elected secretary of the county committee.

Besides the election of officers and the appointment of various committees plans for a strenuous campaign will be discussed and it is probable that the work to be done in every precinct in the county will be outlined and apportioned to the committees.

A meeting of the executive committee of the democratic county committee was held in the McMillan building last night and plans for the fall campaign were perfected. It was decided to occupy office rooms at 320-322 Main street for headquarters and Chairman E. J. Kneen and Secretary A. H. Schubert of the county committee will take charge at once. The meeting last night was attended by Chairman Kneen, Secretary Schubert, Treasurer J. C. Boschert, A. C. Wolfe, John C. Burns, John Elliott, James Murray, J. L. Utermoehl, Berne Mow of West Salem and J. F. Bartl. A meeting of prominent democrats from Trempealeau and La Crosse counties and members of the county committee has been called today for the purpose of discussing plans for the state senatorial campaign. It is probable that C. R. Davis, the candidate for the senate, will name the committee to take charge of the work in his district at the meeting today. Another meeting will be held tomorrow to decide on a committee to carry on the congressional campaign in the Seventh district for W. N. Coffland of Viroqua who is opposing Congressman John J. Esch.

CONTINUE POLICE PROBE

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The investigation into the escape of two Canadian bank robbers from Lieutenant B. J. Burns of the police, was continued by the city civil service commission until next Tuesday. Burns and Captain J. J. Mahoney will be tried before the commission on charges of neglect of duty.

MELROSE AUTOS TO INTER-STATE FAIR

Thirty automobiles from Melrose arrived in La Crosse today, loaded down with inter-state fair visitors. The autoists started from Melrose at 7 o'clock this morning, and came via Burr Oak, Mindoro and West Salem to La Crosse. They picked up a number of farmer automobiles on the way, and the cavalcade made an imposing appearance as it rolled into the city.

Besides the attraction of the fair, the party had another object, which was to force upon the minds of La Crosse county people the need of better roads in the northern part of the county. Melrose is just over the county line in Jackson, and promises to construct fine roads to the county line if Farmington and Hamilton townships of La Crosse county will do their share.

BADGER MOOSE FOR M'GOVERN

State Central Committee Decides to Back Republican After Secret Conference

MAKE THIRD SLATE THREAT

Will Oppose Any Candidate Who "by Word or Deed" Comes Out Against T. R.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—With the Wisconsin bull moose party on record with the endorsement of Governor F. E. McGovern, republican candidate for re-election, party leaders admitted today this action was the result of encouragement to the third party cause lent by the governor.

No other republican candidates were endorsed, and none was opposed for the present, but a sinister warning was issued that a bull moose candidate would be put in the field against any republican candidate who "by word or deed" offers opposition to Roosevelt during the campaign.

When the committee adjourned a brief clandestine session at noon yesterday, the assurance of members was given that a complete state party ticket would be put in the field "because McGovern had refused to come over."

Henry Cochems, leader of the Roosevelt party in this state, and Medill McCormick, Illinois leader, had been in conference with McGovern the entire morning. The committee reconvened late in the afternoon and again adjourned over to a night session. This action, it became known, was because Cochems and McCormick were still in conference with McGovern.

In a third "star chamber" meeting of the committee, they last night abandoned plans for a third party ticket and quickly endorsed the McGovern candidacy in the unanimous passage of a resolution stating the action was to further the "welfare of the progressive movement in this state and in the nation."

Denying that any deal had passed or any pledges had been exacted in the McGovern conferences, Henry F. Cochems declared today "there was simply a recognition of the fact that McGovern stands for progressive principles and policies just as Colonel Roosevelt does."

Chairman Norman L. Baker, commenting on the action of the committee, said: "We passed the resolution because we felt that not to do so would be to defeat the first principles of progressivism in Wisconsin and so throughout the nation. We know that McGovern is one with us, that he believes as we do, not alone concerning state issues, but also on national and the nationalization policy of our party."

Gov. McGovern today issued a statement declaring he is still the nominee of the republican party for governor and that his endorsement for re-election by the bull moose state central committee was no indication that his name would also appear on the Roosevelt ticket. This, the executive points out, would be adverse to the election law which provides that the name of a candidate shall appear on but one of the several party tickets.

CUT THROAT TO END PAIN

SHIPPENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Court officials here today are trying to unravel the mystery surrounding the death of an unidentified man, who it is thought committed suicide after being mangled by a train on the Franklin and Clearfield railroad on September 14. His throat was cut and the lower part of the body was crushed when picked up. A bloody razor was found nearby. It is thought the man realized that help could not be obtained in the lonely spot and ended his sufferings with the razor.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. FOR TAFT

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—Following the largest republican state convention held in Michigan in years, republican leaders were today predicting victory at the polls in November. Although a warm fight was expected between the old line faction and the progressive element, headed by Gov. Osborn, harmony prevailed throughout and the slate picked received unanimous endorsement. President Taft was endorsed.

CIRCUSES SKIP NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 25.—Because the Colorado state veterinarian, as a precaution against meningitis of horses, has ordered that no circus showing in Nebraska be allowed to enter Colorado, managers are cancelling circus dates right and left throughout the state today.

TEXAS HAS SNOW

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 25.—Snow fell here today, the earliest ever known in Texas. The temperature dropped from 95 to 50 over night in northern Texas.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON BEGS WAY INTO PEN

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Harold F. Hoops is in again. The son of the millionaire fireplace manufacturer today was a "working guest" at the Bridewell and he said he was going to stay there until Supt. Whitman made a man of him.

Hoops completed half of his sentence of fifty days for "mashing" yesterday, and his father paid the remainder of his fine. When freed, he said today, he was ashamed to go home, so he went back to the Bridewell and pleaded with the superintendent of the prison to allow him to remain there behind the barred gates until he learned how to do some useful work. Whitman consented, and the formerly gay youth whose career has centered about cafes and saloons for several years, performed the first voluntary day's work of his life today.

29 U. S. SAILORS REPORTED KILLED

American Blue-jackets are Said to Have Been Massacred in Nicaragua

KILLED FORTY REBELS FIRST

Panama Receives Dispatch Saying Tars Sold Their Lives Dearly

PANAMA, Sept. 25.—That 29 American blue jackets have been massacred at Leon, Nicaragua, after killing forty revolutionists, was reported here today. Confirmation of the report is lacking but much uneasiness is felt, since it is known anti-American feeling has been growing in Nicaragua for several days.

Rebel Stronghold

The town of Leon has been a rebel stronghold since the present rebellion broke out. It is about midway between Lake Managua and the Pacific ocean, has a population approximating 35,000, and is connected by rail with Corinto.

The trouble began in June in Nicaragua with President Diaz's request for permission to go aboard an American warship as a vantage point from which to dismiss War Minister Mena. He expressed the opinion that Mena would attempt a revolution and feared for his life if he remained on shore.

His fears were justified. Mena raised the standard of revolt and has been in arms ever since.

Blue jackets, and marines were landed from American warships to protect foreign lives and property and to police the railroads. The Nicaraguans deeply resented this, and, according to latest messages from San Juan del Sur, the Washington administration's explanation of its reasons only made matters worse.

Navy Doubts Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Naval officials received no confirmation this morning of the report from Panama that twenty-nine American marines had been killed at Leon. They were inclined to doubt the report. The latest reports from Rear Admiral Scutclough, in command of the expeditionary force in Nicaragua are that the number of marines at Leon was between 300 and 400. It is understood here that Lieut. Commander Long is in charge of the forces in and above Leon.

No reports were received from Nicaragua early today of any kind.

Cablegrams were sent to Managua this afternoon by state and navy departments asking for confirmation of the report of the fatal battle between American marines and rebels. These messages were sent when word failed to come today from either the American minister at Managua or Admiral Southland. Navy and diplomatic officials both expressed uneasiness over the lack of news.

The latest word received from Admiral Southland was that Gen. Mena had withdrawn from Granada into the interior toward the Costa Rican boundary, after yielding to American demands for cessation of hostilities. A report that Juan Irias, a Costa Rican disturber, was going to join Mena caused the officials some concern.

JURY GETS CASE

GREEN BAY, Wis., Sept. 25.—The case of Sebastian Parmenter against W. J. McGinnis, boxing contest promoter, to recover $10,000 for the death of Parmenter's son John in a boxing contest, went to the jury today. The jury's verdict in the case will be carried to the supreme court, it is declared by both sides.

FIRST DAY OF FAIR SMASHES PAST RECORDS

6,500 People on Grounds of Inter-state Fair Yesterday Set New Mark

BEACHY THRILLS THE CROWD

Spiralist's Daring Stunts Hold Watchers in Breathless Suspense During Flights

PRESIDENT JR., WINS RACE

Millard Drives Horse to Victory After Losing the First Heat

Yesterday's attendance, 6,500—largest opening day attendance. Receipts—$600 in excess of any former opening day. Exhibitors—400. Entries—8,000. Today's Program: 2:00 p. m.—2:30 trot. 2:30 p. m.—Beachy flight (20 minutes.) 2:50 p. m.—2:10 pace. 2:50 p. m.—Sutcliffe troupe exhibition. 3:40 p. m.—Races continued. 4:05 p. m.—Sutcliffe troupe exhibition. 4:15 p. m.—Final heats of races. 4:40 p. m.—Beachy flight (20 minutes.)

More than 6,500 persons, the largest attendance on record on the opening day of the Interstate Fair, witnessed the thrilling flights, dips and glides of Lincoln Beachy, the world famed aviator, yesterday.

With the thousands holding their breath in momentary fear of witnessing the fearless birdman dashed to his death, Beachy gave an exhibition of the volplane, ocean wave, a short spiral glide, and numerous dips. Beachy brought the suspense to a climax by making a dash beneath a wire, stretched from the grand stand to the judges stand, less than fifteen feet from the ground, while traveling at nearly sixty miles an hour.

Another feat of his "dare devil" manipulation of the biplane was his circular flight without the use of his hands. Beachy twice circled the grounds without touching his hand to the wheel which controls the planes.

Several times, the spectators made wild dashes as Beachy descended toward them with the power turned off, fearing that he would be unable to change the course of the machine in time to prevent its destruction and the death of themselves and the aviator.

The first flight, which was made at 2:30, lasted for twenty minutes. A treacherous wind which was blowing made his flights extremely dangerous. The wind subsided somewhat before he started his second flight. Beachy ascended 2,000 feet during his first flight, but did not attempt the "devil dip" for which he is famous.

Beachy's aeroplane is attracting much attention. A Curtiss biplane, weather beaten and oil stained, it shows much hard usage and demonstrates in itself that the heavier than air flying machine is past the experimental stage. Large crowds of people, curious to see the mechanism that permits man to rival the birds in the air, viewed the machine when it was on exhibition yesterday. The aeroplane tent on "The Pike" was one of the most popular attractions at the grounds.

While local interest centered about President Jr. in 2:30 trot, the best exhibition of the day was witnessed in the last heat of the 2:10 pace when Horace Jr. nosed in ahead of Allan Oh So by half a length.

President Jr., a La Crosse horse driven by W. N. Millard, carried off first honors in the 2:30 trot, winning the second, third and fourth heats after opening with third place in the first heat. President Jr. made the last two heats in 2:24 1/4. General Oakley broke in the first quarter of the first heat, dropping hopelessly behind and made but a poor showing in the third and fourth heats. Roy B. the winner of second money had a shade on Sister Pugh crossing the wire ahead in three of the four heats and taking the first.

Horace Jr. in the 2:10 pace, like President Jr., made but a poor showing in the first heat, the other two horses leading, but in the second heat won by a fair margin and managed to nose out ahead in the two remaining heats.

The summaries follow:

TAFT ADDRESSES WAR GOVERNORS

President Guest of Honor at Meetings of Loyal Executives at Altoona

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 25.—This being president's day in the celebration of the 50th meeting in Altoona of the loyal governors in the civil war, the head of the nation, governors, senators, representatives and other great men assembled to participate in the functions.

Altoona was bedecked with flags and bunting. In the hotel corridors crowds of army officers in full dress uniforms were conspicuous.

Events of the day were a big procession of regular army men, the national guard of Pennsylvania and organizations of veterans of the civil war and the marching of hundreds of children of the public and parochial schools in review before the president and other high officials.

Then followed a meeting attended by thousands in a tent provided for the occasion. The program included patriotic music and speeches. Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania, made an address and was chosen presiding officer. The big feature was the address of President Taft. The oration of the day was delivered by Dr. Edwin Earl Sparks, president of the Pennsylvania State college.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT SMALL COST

A Simple Remedy Beautifies the Hair, Cures Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank smelling with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment. O. T. Erhart.—Advertisement.

STEAK TO REACH $30 PER POUND

Retailers Say Beef Will Soar as Soon as the Winter Season Sets In CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Beefsteak at 30 cents a pound as soon as winter has arrived, was predicted today by retailers. Packers would not admit any certain figure, but all of them agreed that meat prices which have advanced from one to three cents a pound in the last two days, will go still higher.

Choice sirloin today was 28 cents. Pork chops which two weeks ago were 22 cents, today are selling at 28 cents for the best. There is a small supply of "chuck steak" at 12 to 14 cents and lamb shoulders at 18½ to 14½c, and the next cheapest meats were selling today at 16 to 23 cents a pound.

Added to the climb in meat prices, condensed milk dealers today announced that next winter their product, which now sells at ten cents, will move up to 14 cents.

The packers talk freely about the situation, each exacting a promise that his name is not to be used in any published articles. One of the administrative heads of Swift & Co., said today: "People are making a mistake in thinking that the packers are arbitrarily fixing the price of meats. Supply, which is small and demand, which is strong, are forcing the prices up. It is true that if the tariff of $12 a carcass on imported cattle were removed, Argentine, Canada and Mexico would ship in large numbers of cattle, but removal of the tariff would demoralize the stock raising business in this country; growers would be discouraged and the supply next year would be shorter than it is this year."

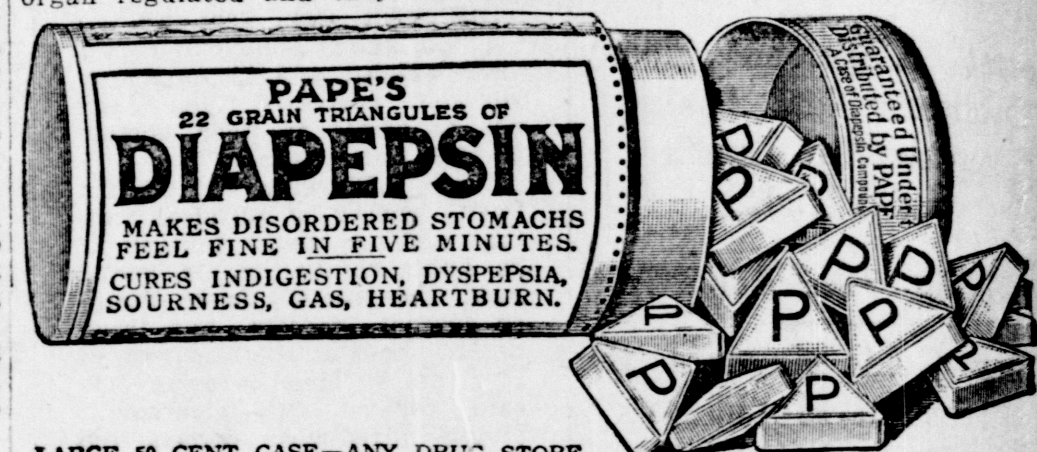

Another representative of a large packing house said: "The American people have learned to grin and bear a great deal. They will stand for the present high prices and the future higher ones."

STOMACH BAD? BELCHING GAS AND SOUR FOOD? WANT TO FEEL FINE

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

SPANISH STRIKE SERIOUS

MADRID, Sept. 25.—A pretense of a service was maintained on the Catalan railroads today, despite the spread of the strike. Though labor leaders oppose it, the walkout promises to spread throughout Spain. The ministers of home affairs and public works were in continuous conference concerning the strike situation, which is considered most alarming. Mutterings of revolution are beginning to be heard. Troops and civil guards are being rushed to strategic points.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN OUGHT TO KNOW

POOH! Anybody can make bread," I fancy I hear one of you say.

That may be true, but what kind of bread—good, bad or indifferent? That makes all the difference in the world. The truth is, there is nothing in the whole range of cooking that is so uneven in its results as bread. That is the experience of the majority of cooks, amateur and professional. I was talking on this subject once with the very capable woman who was at that time, administering kitchen affairs for me, and who always had the most delicious and toothsome bread.

"You never seem to make a mistake, Mary, or to have bad luck with your baking," I said.

"There's no need of either, madam," was Mary's reply. "It is just lack of care. When I make bread I put my mind to it, and see to it that it is right."

And then Mary made a statement that quite contradicted the one made by the girl who received the proposition for this lesson so cavalierly:

"And not everybody can make good bread, no matter how hard they try. There's Nellie, now—Nellie was her assistant, whom she was teaching to cook—it's no use to try to teach her; she never can do it; she's too heavy-handed; she'll never make a cook. I was telling her that this morning."

Alertness Necessary in Cooking

At first I didn't quite see what Mary meant, but I found out by watching. The girl moved clumsily; she touched things as though her hand was of iron; she clutched rather than held whatever was in her grasp; there was no lightness, no alertness to any of the motions. She was just "heavy"; that described her better than any other word would have done. I have seen a few people like her since, and I have found out in every case that they were not good ally used is the convenient compressed yeast, but when my pupil had her lessons in bread-making she had first of all to learn to make yeast, as housekeepers then depended almost wholly upon home-made yeast.

And even now, if one lives at quite a distance from town, and the grocer doesn't come regularly for orders, it is most convenient to have one's yeast jug to go to when there is bread to be made. I know housekeepers who never let themselves get out of this necessary article, generally using the last cupful with which to start a new supply.

It is no difficult matter, this of yeast making, as you will soon discover. The dread of undertaking it is far more than the real task of doing it, as is true in so many things. You will need the following ingredients in the given proportions:

Simple Ingredients

One large potato, one tablespoonful of hops, loose, one pint of boiling water, one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one heaping teaspoonful of sugar, one heaping teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of ginger, one-half a yeast cake dissolved in half a cupful of lukewarm water or half a cupful of yeast. Wash the potato well, pare it, and put it at once into cold water. If you neglect to do this the potato will discolor and spoil the appearance of the yeast.

Steep the hops in the boiling water. Mix the flour, sugar, ginger and salt in a large bowl, then grate the potato into this flour mixture; let the hop water boil for one minute, then strain it over the potato and flour, and mix it as quickly as possible. It should thicken like starch with no cooking, but if it fails

When you have to take some yeast out do not take the jar into a warm place, but pour it out where it is kept, and be sure that the cork is replaced at once. You will notice that the potato is not cooked, but is grated raw. Now many of the rules that are in use call for boiled potatoes. I do not suppose that the yeast itself is any better made with the uncooked potatoes, but it keeps better.

It is more likely to turn sour soon when the cooked potato is used, just as any cooked vegetables spoil more quickly than uncooked ones. It is certainly more trying, both to fingers and patience, to grate the raw potato than to mash the cooked one, but the result will be better, and isn't that worth taking a little trouble for?

Beginning Bread-Making

And now for the bread itself. The first step is to examine your hands, to see that they are quite clean, rings removed and nails in order, and you are ready to begin.

The rule I am going to give you—for we don't want to undertake too much at the beginning—will make a single loaf or a pan of biscuits. You can increase the proportions as you desire a larger quantity, but I would make my experiment with the single loaf.

Use one cupful of milk or water, lukewarm; one-half a teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of sugar, one-quarter of a cupful of yeast, or one-quarter a yeast cake dissolved in one-quarter of a cupful of lukewarm water, and from three to three and a half cupfuls of flour.

Milk Bread

Milk bread, I think, is finer-grained and smoother than bread that is mixed with water, and I have an idea that it is more delicate, and at the same time more nourishing. Still, water bread is good, and where milk is not easily obtained, or is too expensive to use for mixing, you will, I am sure, find no fault with its substitute.

If you use milk you must heat it to boiling in the double boiler; mere scalding will not do, it must be boiled. This is to prevent the dough from turning sour while rising, as it often will do in warm weather unless this precaution is taken.

After the milk has been boiled turn it into the mixing bowl and set it aside to cool. When just lukewarm add the salt, sugar and yeast, then the flour, measured after sifting. Mix it thoroughly with a knife or spoon, and then when it is well mixed and is stiff enough to knead, turn it out onto a well-floured board, and knead it until it is soft and elastic and can be worked without any flour.

Kneading

You need not make hard work of the kneading; it is a matter of dexterity rather than of strength, lightness and quickness of touch rather than heavy bearing down upon the mass. What you want to do is to get it well mixed, so that every particle shall be permeated with the yeast, and it shall be perfectly smooth and free from lumps. Use only the tips of the fingers and the ball of the hand, press lightly and do not break the smooth crust that will form under proper kneading. You may have a little trouble the first time and possibly the second, but in this, as in most things, "practice makes perfect," so don't get discouraged but keep on trying until you succeed.

SEE THAT IT IS BROWNED PROPERLY AND HAS A HOLLOW SOUND WHEN YOU RAP IT

And let me tell you as a secret that there is no better exercise for the chest and arms than this, and if you have a flat chest, flabby muscles and drooping shoulders, just take up bread-making. You'll be surprised what it will do in the way of development.

Letting Bread Rise

So soon as the dough is a smooth,

KNEADING IS THE BASIS OF GOOD BREAD

on the outside, but the whole mass may be kept soft.

Be sure you put it where it will not be in a draught, or where it will be subject to no marked change in temperature. Then you may go away and leave it, for the busy yeast is doing its work and getting it ready for your hands in the morning.

And there you find it beautifully risen, ready to make into the loaf or the biscuit. When well risen it should be double its original bulk; work it over in the bowl, doubling in from the edges toward the center until it is smooth; let it rise again, which it will do quickly, until it is double its bulk, then shape it into a loaf and set it to rise in the pan in which it is to be baked.

Baking

Let it rise until it is light, then bake in an oven in which you can hold the hand twelve seconds without getting too hot. At first you will have to ask advice, and take counsel with someone to whom bread-making is not a novelty, until you have come to know by yourself when the oven, the bread or the rolls are "just right."

Bake your bread from three-quarters of an hour to an hour—watching it carefully all the time, but more careful at the last. See that it browns properly—a lovely, soft, golden brown with not a hint of a scorch—and that it has a hollow sound when you rap it with your knuckle.

Having mastered bread-making, you may call yourself a cook. It seems a dry and uninteresting branch of proficiency in that line, I admit, but if you consider how necessary an article bread is, how inseparable from our every meal, you for when does the fruit must be cooked down to a rich velvety mass that can be molded, and thinly sliced like cheese.

To prepare dry preserves the fruit is cooked in a rich syrup until the latter has "struck through." The fruit is then drained from the syrup and the cooking process continued in a cool oven, or, better, under glass by the rays of the sun. This kind of conserve is usually packed in sugar for keeping, and is eaten from the fingers like candy.

The following recipe for what the French call Raisiné will give a very choice conserve: Skin four pounds of grapes and cook with one pint of water until the seeds are free from the pulp, rub through a fine colander, add four pounds of ripe pears peeled and cut into small pieces, and cook over a slow fire until reduced to three-quarters of the amount; then add sugar in the proportion of three-quarters of a pound for every pound of fruit and one pound for every pint of water. Cook until a drop of the conserve on a chilled plate will keep its shape.

Turn into small glasses or gallipots and place in a cool oven for nine or ten hours. When the cooking process is finished the conserve should be stiff enough to slice smoothly. For apple raisiné cut in small pieces two and one-half pounds of high-flavored cooking apples, put them over a slow fire with one pint of sweet cider and simmer until soft; then add an equal quantity of chopped seeded raisins, one cupful of water or cider and four pounds of sugar; cook very slowly until the above-mentioned test will apply successfully, rub through a fine colander and put in small jars.

Served with tiny balls of cream cheese or a fluff of whipped cream, and accompanied by unsweetened wafers and chocolate, raisiné makes the finest kind of a luncheon sweet.

A conserve made from citron melon is very good. Make it in the proportion of ten pounds of melon, eight pounds of sugar, four large lemons and one-fourth pound of green ginger root. Pare and cut the melon in small pieces, then cover it with lime water made of ½-lb. of lime and one gallon of water. Let it stand for five or six hours, then drain, cover with cold water, bring to the boiling point and drain again. Put the melon, the lemons, sliced, and half of the sugar in the preserving kettle and set away for twenty-four hours; then add the remainder of the sugar, and cook over a slow fire for five or six hours.

A "dry" conserve, a Turkish conceit, is also made of citron, and will prove a practical novelty to many. It is good for a luncheon sweet or to serve with ice-cream. Pare and chop very fine a fresh citron, cover it with slightly salted water and boil until tender; drain and cover with diluted white wine vinegar or lemon juice and let stand at least twenty-four hours. Drain again, cover with a thick sugar syrup made as for canning fruit and slowly boil until a thick green paste results, then add one-half cupful of rose-water and continue cooking until a little dropped in ice-water can be rolled in a firm ball. Pour to the depth of one-half inch into oiled pans, cover with glass and stand in the sun—or in a cool oven—for twelve hours. Cut in fancy shapes and pack in layers, with granulated sugar between, in air-tight boxes.

Tomato Marmalade

We are so accustomed to look upon the humble little green tomato as fit only to play the part of "soup" in the mixed pickle-pot, that it is hard to associate it with a toothsome marmalade, but this fruit—for the tomato is a berry—really shines as a marmalade ingredient. Peel the tomatoes and cut in halves or quarters. Add the sugar, allowing about thirteen ounces for every pound of fruit, and stand away over night. In the morning add one lemon cooks; no matter how conscientiously they tried, they could not succeed. It was the hopeless heaviness of their movements.

I give you this piece of information for two reasons: To show you that the girl who jumped at her conclusions jumped in the wrong direction, and to give you some information that may stand you in stead in time to come when it shall fall to you to look for the new maid.

Before we begin mixing the bread I have a word to say to you about the yeast for making the dough rise.

Yeast

In these days the yeast most gener-

to do this put it over the fire for a few minutes.

Allow for Fermentation

If it is too thick add a little more boiling water until it is the consistency of cream; set it aside to cool, and when it is lukewarm add the yeast. Put it in a warm place to rise until it is frothy and light, beating it down every half hour. When it is risen sufficiently, put it in a jar or a glass bottle, cork it and keep it cool. Don't fill the receptacle; you'll be likely to have an explosion if you do, and find your yeast anywhere but where you put it. Remember, the jar not over two-thirds full, to allow for fermentation.

SUMMER SKIN DISEASES

During the summer most persons are annoyed with pimples, boils, rashes, or eruptions, while others suffer more severely with Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some kindred skin disease. A perfect condition of the skin exists as long as the blood is normal, but when it becomes contaminated with humors and acids its supply of nutritive properties is greatly lessened and it becomes a sharp, acrid fluid which diseases instead of preserving the natural health and texture of the skin. The eruptions may be glossed over and inflammation reduced by the application of washes, cosmetics, salves, etc., but no skin affection can ever be permanently cured in this way; only pure blood can make healthy skin. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the blood. S. S. S. builds the circulation up to its normal strength, increases its nutritive powers and adds to its purity in every way. Then the skin instead of being irritated with acid humors and impurities, is nourished and healed by a plentiful supply of rich, pure blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free.

MEASLES GERM IS DISCOVERED

There is oddity in the fact that while medical science has been marching from one triumph to another it heretofore has not been able to do much against many of the so-called "children's diseases." Millions are being spent for medical research and yet when a child goes to school it is considered inevitable that it will catch whooping cough, mumps, measles, etc. The dread diphtheria used to be one of the menaces, but the discovery of the specific germ and the antitoxin to kill it has vastly decreased its scope.

Parents therefore will be interested to know that the specialists in the United States hygienic laboratory at Washington believe they have discovered the specific germ for measles. In this case, if the parallel of diphtheria holds good an antitoxin that will defeat that germ is the natural sequel. The announcement comes as the result of experiments which have been made with monkeys. It is stated that for the first time in medical history the animals were actually inoculated with the disease and the germ isolated.

The importance of concentrating medical effort on diseases common to children is made evident by recalling the fact that one out of every four persons born on this earth dies before the age of six years. In other words the deaths of babies account for 25 per cent of the total mortality. Of course these figures, including as they do the heavy death rate of many backward countries, are not to be applied to all civilized nations. The rates naturally vary according to the attention which is paid to infant hygiene, the proper training of mothers, the stringency of the law re-

Good Advice

Not long ago Lord Kinnard, who is always actively interested in religious work, paid a surprise visit to a mission school in the east end of London, and told a class of boys, the story of Samson. In concluding his narrative his lordship added:

"He was strong, became weak, and then regained his strength, enabling him to destroy his enemies. Now, boys, if I had an enemy what would you advise me to do?"

A little boy after meditating on the secret of that great giant's strength shot up his hand and exclaimed: "Get a bottle of 'air restorer'."

Poor Old Wordsworth

Owen Wister, the novelist, was talking in Philadelphia about a poet whose work sold poorly.

"Poets are usually without honor," he said. "Remember Wordsworth's case."

"The great Wordsworth, you know, was in the habit of spouting his poetry aloud as he took his lonely walks. Thus he polished and elaborated his lines. Thus, too, he got the reputation among the Rydal Lake folks of being a bit daff."

"Well, John, what's the news?" Hartley Coleridge once asked an old stonebreaker by the lake shore.

"Why, not varra partickler," the stonebreaker replied; "only old Wordsworth's broken loose again."

Lesson in Scientific Complexion Renewing

(From The Family Physician)

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercialized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful under-skin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexion should get an ounce of mercialized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.—Advertisement.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

What Teddy Thinks

Arthur Koenig, who is again in Milwaukee after a summer in Europe, says that a fellow passenger on his return trip across the Atlantic created amusement by reading the following poem:

I'm twice as great as Washington,
I'm twice as great as Grant;
Because they didn't get three terms
They needn't think I can't.

I'm twice as great as Jefferson
And Madison combined,
I'm twice as great as all the lot
Of Presidents I find.

I'm greater than my country,
With its customs and its laws;
And its poor old constitution,
With its presidential flaws.

I'm twice as great as any man
Above or 'neath the sod,
In fact, I'm half inclined to think
I'm twice as great as God.

Not Flaggng

Mayor Stewart of Saginaw was talking about a grade crossing accident, wherein an automobile party of six had been ground to mincemeat under an express.

"There was no flagman at this grade crossing," he said. "At the average grade crossing there is never any flagman."

"From the nature of these innumerable grade crossing accidents, it is certainly plain that the railroad business of the country is not flagging."

Her Talons

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the suffrage leader, was arguing at a dinner in Newport, with a man who disputed her right to engrave "Votes for Women" on her checks.

"Why should women vote anyway?" Thus the man, having got the worst of the argument, sidestepped. "Woman can't bear arms—she can't fight—why, then, should she vote?"

"Women can't fight?" said Mrs. Belmont, smiling. "Oh, I think she can—when it comes to the scratch!"

Couldn't be More So

Richard Carle, who is costar with Hattie Williams in "The Girl from Montmartre," lately sent for the manager of the company and asked "for the privilege of meeting that man who has been sitting in the first row near the stage box since the opening night of our show."

"Which man?" asked the manager. "See here," answered Mr. Carle, leading the manager to the peep hole of the curtain. "There; that fellow."

"Why, that's the drummer's assistant," answered the manager. "There wasn't room for him in the orchestra pit so we sat him up there."

"And still people say I wear glasses on the stage just for fun," answered Carle.

"I couldn't be more nearsighted if I owed everybody money."

Bored Man's Retort

It was in a railway carriage, and the company comprised several commercial travelers and a stout, elderly man, who sat snugly in one corner engrossed in his paper.

Each and all of the others made desperate efforts to draw their silent, stout companion into conversation, but to no purpose. He merely sat there reading.

At last one of them determined to settle the matter.

"Pardon me, sir," he said suavely, "but I feel sure that you are one of us. What do you travel in?"

The others bent forward eagerly as the stout man slowly lowered his newspaper and peered through his spectacles, with sad and melancholy mien, at the persistent one.

"Well, my friend," replied he, "at present I am traveling in very inquisitive and objectionable company, and the carriage is full of samples."

$5,000 FOR MULE KICK

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 25.—Leo Wetherell, miner, says he was ordered to drive a mule through a tunnel smaller than the mule. The mule got stuck and kicked and Leo asks $5,000 damages. He devoted a page of his petition to telling how he felt after it was all over.

HE COMES UP SMILING

Copyright: Robts-Merrill Co.

The Watermelon leaned back in the deep soft cushions of the big car and smiled a smile of calm and peace and comfort. The car ran smoothly, noiselessly, little breezes laden with the sweetness of the approaching night wandered by, on each side of him was a pretty girl. Tramping idealized! It was living idealized. And that morning, hungry, shabby, unshaven, he had been content to lie in the sweet lush grasses of a chance meadow, under a butternut tree, with the convivial James and the corpulent Mike. He crossed one well-pressed, silken leg over the other and saw by the way-side, lounging in the shadows, waiting for the car to pass, the two, James and Mike—Mike fat, red-faced, dirty, his frowns had pulled aslant over his small, bleary eyes, shoulders humped from long habit in cold weather, toes coming out of his boot ends; James, clean shaven, but otherwise no better dressed, no cleaner, both chewing tobacco with the thoughtful rumination of the cows, watching over the pasture bars at the end of the wooded lane.

Over the trees, the sun was dropping from sight. Clearly and sweetly on the quiet air of the eventide, the church bells began to toll from the village below them in the valley.

Billy nudged the Watermelon to call his attention to the two weary figures by the wayside.

"Poor fellows," said Henrietta softly, lest they hear her.

The Watermelon glanced at them in lofty disgust and catching James' eye, his own flickered the fraction of an inch and he raised his hands languidly to adjust the brown silk tie at his throat. When they had passed, he turned and waved a graceful farewell. He explained to Billy as they swept on into the deepening dusk.

"You might as well encourage the poor fellows. They probably want to ride as well as I." And Henrietta fancied that possibly his father had looked thus on a Sunday, in the pulpit of a country church.

"Yes," agreed Billy. "They may be perfectly dandy fellows."

"Assuredly," laughed Henrietta. "The stout one fairly radiated truth and nobility, a manly, upright youth."

"I don't care," declared Billy warmly. "You can't always tell from appearances. You ought to know that, Henrietta. Clothes don't make the man."

"Nor his manners," laughingly retorted Henrietta.

"Sure," said the Watermelon. "Father used to say that manners didn't count any more than the good apples on the top of the box to hide the rotten ones beneath."

"I think your father was a cynic," said Henrietta sharply, into whose ears Billy had been recounting the sayings of the absent divine.

"Yes," admitted the Watermelon. "He was."

"Cynicism is a sign of failure," quoted Henrietta. "Surely your father wasn't a cynic."

"Yes, he was," declared the Watermelon, "and you didn't make that up yourself. You heard some failure say it. Father used to say, and he's right, that if a man reached forty without becoming a cynic, he was a fool and might better never have reached forty. A success can be a cynic, for cynicism is simply a pretty good idea of the meanness of human nature and no unfounded expectation of anything especially decent coming from it. Isn't that so? Father used to say that love was divine, hate devilish and meanness just cursed human nature, and a mixture of the three in more or less degree made man."

"Your father was a philosopher," laughed Henrietta. "I would like to have met him."

"I thought the papers said—" began Billy, in her slow, anxious way to get things right.

"Yes, they did," interrupted the Watermelon, "and they were right."

It was quite dark now. Bartlett stopped a moment while Alphonse lit the lamps, and then they went on and on, faster and faster, into the summer night. Once in a while they passed a lighted farm-house and a dog rushed out and barked at them. Twice they whirled through small villages and the villagers, going home from church, paused to watch them pass and be swallowed up in the dark ahead.

The air was full of fireflies. A whippoorwill called plaintively from the bushes, and low in the west were flashes of heat lightning, with now and then an ominous rumble of distant thunder. Silence had settled on all, even Billy mused in her corner, half asleep.

The general had been worried for some time. They were apparently getting nowhere. He felt that he should have consulted the blue book. He was about to suggest that they stop and get the book from the rear car, when Bartlett waved toward the dark bulk of a house looming out of the night, some little way ahead.

"That's the place," said he. "We can spend the night there and get one of the best chicken breakfasts I ever ate."

The general looked at the place and rallied his sinking spirits. It appeared dark and he should say it was deserted, but Bartlett doubtless knew what he was talking about. The people probably lived in the kitchen. He was hungry and tired and the thought of hot sau-

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

sages, bread and jam and milk and then a soft cool bed was nearly as good as the reality. He turned gaily to the quiet three in the tonneau. "Wake up and hear the birds sing."

Bartlett glanced back and laughed. "Asleep, eh? We're there," he added, turning the car neatly into the open driveway. "Guess you won't refuse a good supper very strenuously."

The drive was rough and they rolled slowly up to a great dark house, standing on a slight rise of ground, a typical New England farmhouse, square and gaunt and unadorned, with a small front stoop and a long side porch. From the trees behind the house came the dismal cry of a hoot owl, as the cars came to a rest, and an answering cry from the grove across the road.

"Ghosts," whispered the general. "Oh, hush," pleaded Billy. "There is no need of fooling with things like that."

"This house ain't lived in," said the Watermelon, as he slipped from the car to straighten his cramped legs.

"Folks gone to bed," explained Bartlett cheerfully, since he was not the one who had gone to bed. "We will just have to rout them out."

He shut off the power and alighted from the car, pulling off his gloves. Alphonse came up in the other car and peered out at the dark, quiet, lonely house and shook his head with forebodings.

"There isn't any one here," insisted the Watermelon, "asleep or awake."

Thoughtful People in Every Walk of Life are Turning to Habits of Thrift.

People of wealth are seldom spendthrifts. They have long since learned the value of money.

The spendthrift is nearly always some one who cannot afford the luxuries he seeks.

The thrifty person adjusts his living and earnings in order that a part of each month's wages may be set aside for future use.

And a Savings Account with the Batavian National Bank is the most convenient method of which we know, to do this. Any small amount will start your account.

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—When the republican state convention, which will name a complete state ticket and adopt a platform on which to make the fight in the coming campaign met at noon today, its affairs were in a decidedly chaotic state. Despite the fact that the leaders have been in almost continual conference since last Saturday, hardly a single platform plank had been selected and the various candidates for the gubernatorial nomination continued as confident as at any time since they shed their hats into the ring, no one man standing out prominently.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Silent on the O'Gorman-Murphy affair and the New York situation, Governor Wilson remained secluded in an obscure hotel off Broadway until he departed for New England at 11 a. m. Callers were told that he was preparing his speeches for the next three days.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25.—Colonel Roosevelt played a one-day stand in Arkansas today and Little Rock crowds, reinforced by visitors to the deep waterway convention turned out en masse to hear the progressive candidate. The colonel, a little tired, but still enthusiastic, battered away at Governor Wilson, pummeled the bosses, bespoke support for progressives, and paid the deep water trunk line project flattering tributes.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 25.—For the first time in history today a campaign committee paid a "dividend." John H. Cowrie, chairman of the finance committee of the Cummins campaign today mailed all contributors 28 per cent of their contribution. HE IS FOR MCGOVERN NOW

Declares Intention to Vote for Wilson, but for Republican Governor

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—Burt Williams, Ashland, long time democratic leader in the northern part of the state and democratic candidate for nomination as United States senator two years ago, is out with a letter repudiating Karel. He says:

"The climax of this betrayal of democratic principles came when the Karel forces insisted upon electing as chairman the very man who six months ago was vilifying, insulting and denouncing the reputation and record of Woodrow Wilson and belittling the accomplishments of this great American.
"As far as I am personally concerned, I feel I will be doing my state and my party real service, after voting for Wilson for president, to vote for McGovern for governor.
"As the condition presents itself to the Wisconsin voter today there is no man a progressive can honestly vote for for president but Wilson and there is no man a progressive can be equally conscientious in supporting for governor but McGovern."

MONTANA FARMERS FORCED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25. — In answer to the appeal of prosperity-stricken Montana farmers, W. P. Kenney, general traffic manager of the Great Northern road, left yesterday for Helena, where he will superintend the transportation of the western grain crop and the efforts of the railroad to relieve the freight congestion.

According to reports received in St. Paul more than 350 Montana farmers have been literally crowded from house and home by the bumper crops. Even their houses are filled with grain to the second story windows, while the harvesters camp in tents beside the stubble fields, waiting cars to move the season's yield.

SNOW STOPS TRAFFIC

NORTH DAKOTA, MONTANA AND WESTERN MINNESOTA HIT BY FIRST FALL OF SEASON

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 25.—Following two weeks of steady rain, the first snow of the season fell yesterday in North Dakota, eastern Montana and western Minnesota. In some sections the fall was heavy enough to partially tie up traffic. Farmers in the northern counties of North Dakota and Minnesota will be heavy sufferers, many fields of wheat, rye, flax and barley being uncut. The corn crop also will suffer. Threshing was about half completed and a week or more of favorable weather will be needed before work can be resumed.

GIANTS MUST WIN BUT 2 MORE GAMES

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Despite the fact that the Giants have not yet clinched the national league pennant the national committee in session here today was expected to select the dates for the world's championship series. By winning two games of the remaining eleven, McGraw's men will be able to land, even if Chicago should win all remaining games.

October 7 will probably be the opening date for the big series.

One of the big problems was the arrangement of the schedule. There has been sentiment against the playing of games in the two cities on alternate days. Players have objected to the daily trip between the towns. The fans like this arrangement. It was thought probable that the daily shift would be adopted, for the only alternative was the playing of two games in succession in each city.

MILLERS WIN FLAG FOR THIRD TIME

The American association baseball season is now ended with the Minneapolis team the champions for the third successive year, the Millers winning out over Toledo, the second place team, by a margin of six and a half games. Toledo made a great uphill fight and succeeded in beating out Columbus for second place in the race by almost one game. The Milwaukee team, which got a bad start in the race, finished fifth, but a few games behind Kansas City which team landed fourth position. St. Paul finished sixth, Louisville seventh and Indianapolis was last in the league standings.

ORDERS SERVICE AGAIN IN DULUTH

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 25.—Under an order of the district court, the Duluth Street Railway company must resume full and adequate street car service.

Judge Homer B. Dibell on Tuesday filed his decision in the city's mandamus suit against the street railway to force a resumption of the old service, such as was offered prior to the strike.

YALE GETS POSTAL BANK

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—Yale students will save money and local banks will lose by the establishment today at the Yale station of the postoffice of a branch of the postal savings bank. The petition for the bank was made by students who the local banks said could not patronize the institutions unless they kept between $100 and $200 on deposit all the time and then charged them $5 for handling their accounts.

ROME, Sept. 25.—The Turkish-Italian struggle has cost the Italian war department $65,000,000 thus far, it was announced today. Naval expenses, the minister of marine stated, have been $15,000,000. The finance ministry added no foreign loan is needed as yet. The war has been going on nearly a year.

U. S. EXAMPLE FIRES IRISH

BELFAST, Sept. 25.—News that $20,000 was subscribed by Irish-Americans at Philadelphia Monday night in furtherance of the home rule campaign had the same effect upon the speakers at today's orange meeting at Portadown, County Armagh, as waving a red rag in his face has upon a vicious bull.

Normal Education.

If education were normal, we would find it a wide, free, subtly adjusted system of transference of knowledge wherein each and all could delightfully bring their minds to be fed, life-long; and wherein those most gifted as teachers: i. e., most enjoying the active side of that transference, could delightfully do the feeding.—Gilman.

AN Electric Supply Dealer, whose store is in Illinois, called on us Saturday and saw our immense stock of standard $5.00 Westinghouse Electric Flat Irons. He was greatly impressed with the size of our stock and when we told him that we intended selling these irons during Fair week at $3.00 each, he said: "Great Scott, man, you can't do that. Why, those irons cost me more than that in dozen lots."

WE told him that we could and would sell the irons at $3.00 each during Fair week only, as we considered doing so a good advertising proposition for the irons as well as for ourselves. He told us that he always sold the irons for $5.00, and that we could if we wished ship him ten of our irons at the $3.00 price, and we promised him that we would do so, provided we had any left when the fair was over.

THIS is your chance to get one of these irons at a remarkably low price, and we doubt if you will ever have as good a chance again. If you intend to ever own an electric iron—now is the time to buy, if you do not want it for yourself—it will make a fine gift for a friend.

REMEMBER this special price is positively for this week only and in addition is limited by the number of irons which we have. When our present supply is exhausted, the sale is over.

YOUNG BRIDE OF GUNMAN "LEFTY LOUIE"

WOULD GRACE BALL ROOM OF THE "400"

Wife of "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg, gunman, charged with complicity in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, gambler, has a beauty and a charm that would grace even a ball room of the "400." Her skin is wonderfully clear and a natural peach bloom flushes her cheeks. Her ears are small and perfectly shaped. Her lips form a cupid's bow and her teeth, small and pearly, give added effect to her beauty. She was a saleslady and clerked in a department store before she married "Lefty Louie" a little more than a year ago.

SOCIALISTS MAY BE BARRED FROM BALLOT

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25.—Unless returns from Ramsey, Hennepin and St. Louis counties largely increase the vote, it is possible that the socialist-labor party in Minnesota did not record sufficient strength in the recent primaries to entitle it to have the names of its candidates on the general election ticket. This became apparent yesterday when a rough calculation of results was made from official returns received at the state capital. If this is true, the candidates can get on the ballot only by petition.

Women's Fineness of Touch.

Electrical engineers number young women among their workers, and Edison is said to prefer women machinists for their fineness of touch. Mrs. Ira Tott of Long Beach, Cal., founded and managed an entire electrical plant successfully. Being an expert engineer, she superintended the building of her plant and bought and installed the machinery.

Highest and Lowest Points.

The highest point in the United States is the summit of Mount Whitney, California, 14,501 feet above the sea level. From this spot one may look down upon the lowest point in the United States, only ninety-two miles distant, but 276 feet below the sea level, a difference in altitude of 14,000 feet. This lowest point is in Death Valley.

INSPECTORS CAN'T READ THE METERS

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25.—Inspectors who cannot read water meters correctly have been furnishing the data upon which the water department heretofore has collected its revenue. This was demonstrated by an examination given the inspectors.

SIXTH OF FAMILY
DIES IN ODD WAY

Father of Girl Drowned
Passes After Only Six Hours Sudden Illness

James Cooper Wheeler died suddenly in Denver after six hours' illness. Miss Ann Wheeler Wilkins, mother, died under mysterious circumstances two years ago. Canda C. Wheeler drowned in Bowles' Lake, near Denver, June 23. Two aunts, and a cousin died mysteriously while in Omaha two years ago.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 25.—A malign fate, manifesting itself in sudden and tragic deaths, seems to hang over the family of Miss Canda C. Wheeler, the Hollis, N. Y., girl who was drowned in Bowles Lake on the evening of June 23. Her father, James Cooper Wheeler, author of many stories for boys, lies dead here today after an illness of six hours, making the sixth member of the family to die strangely in two years. Wheeler died of uraemic poisoning, according to physicians, although when he came here last Saturday he was not suffering from any illness.

The circumstances preceding his death are somewhat mysterious. Accompanied by his lawyer, Emil Schmallock, Wheeler came to Denver Saturday, both men registering under assumed names. They came here to gather evidence with which to break the will of Miss Wheeler, filed for probate two months ago. Wheeler alleged that the will, which made Dr. H. H. Myer, brother of her fiancé, executor, was not Miss Wheeler's will at all, or else she was unduly influenced by Dr. Myer and his brother, Otto.

Monday morning, Wheeler was suddenly stricken after he had dressed for breakfast. He died six hours later. The body was shipped east today. Doctors say there is no doubt death was perfectly natural.

TAFT PROMISES TO CUT TARIFF

hope, but the certainty of tariff revision, provided that revision shall not be haphazard but based upon the rate of duty necessary to prevent destructive competition from European countries, and I must add, also from Japan. The democrats presented to me for my signature a woolen bill and a cotton bill, both of which, if allowed to become laws, would have made such a radical cut in the rates on many woolen and cotton manufacturers as seriously to interfere with those industries in this country and would have forced a transfer of the manufacture to England and Germany and other foreign countries.

"I did not get time to visit the democratic 'chamber of horrors' as they call their tariff exhibit, but a friend told me a funny story about it. A workman was looking at the products there, with their tags showing the price were the tariff removed. He noticed a coat on which the 'if' price was remarkably low. 'Why,' he said, 'that would be less than I get for making such a coat. Where would I come in?'

To Revise at Once

"With the election of the republican candidates for president and congress, revision will proceed at once, along the lines indicated by the work of the tariff board."

Asked if that meant an extra session of congress, the president replied: "My statement is sufficiently explicit."

As to banking and the Aldrich currency plan, the president said: "I have no changed in the slightest my view as to the necessity of monetary reform, or of the great value of the purpose of the work done by the monetary commission, of which former Senator Aldrich was chairman."

Continuing, he said: "There has been some criticism of alleged intervention in Nicaragua. There was no intervention there. Under conditions of anarchy and lawlessness and with the consent of the lawful government, American marines were landed in Nicaragua to assist in the protection of the lives and property of Americans. While I am in the White house the independent sovereignty of every republic on this continent will be respected as fully as we mean that our own shall be respected by other nations."

On equal suffrage he said: "Suffrage for women is an issue to be decided by the states and there can be no doubt whatever that whenever a majority of women impress upon their fathers, husbands, sons, brothers and beaux that they want to vote, they will get the right to vote. It is too noble, too serious, too sacred an issue to be used by a political party merely to catch votes. I believe women to be as capable of a wise use of the ballot as men."

"I regard the maintenance of an independent judiciary as a supreme issue and I agree with the American Bar association that the recall applied to judges would tend to deprive the public of judges of ability, character and a high sense of duty."

"The republican party stands for the constitution as it is, with such amendments adopted according to its provisions as new conditions may require."

The president expressed himself as favorable to immigration, declaring that the country was big enough for all, and said that the negroes were expected to vote for the republicans as they always had since a republican president freed them; he declared that the claims of Samuel Gompers, attacking the Taft administration were "as erroneous as his claims that he would deliver the entire labor vote to Bryan four years ago."

He then called attention to the laws in behalf of labor passed during his administration, and after declaring that he was greatly encouraged and hoped to be re-elected in November, the president ended his statement with the following:

Accepts Responsibility

"I appreciate Governor Wilson's courteous and respectful personal attitude toward my office and towards me. As to his statement about me being misled by 'bad advisers' I wish him and everyone to understand that I have been and will continue to be to the end of my term, president of the United States in all that the title implies, that I am responsible for every act of my administration and have no burden to shift to others."

DULUTH COMPANY
WON'T ARBITRATE

Street Car Owners Turn Down Latest and Easiest Terms Offered
by Strikers

DULUTH, Sept. 25.—"There is nothing to arbitrate." This was the answer today of General Manager Warren of the local street railway company to the overtures of the striking conductors and motormen to end the street railway strike. This refusal to arbitrate, taken in connection with Judge Dibell's order that the street car company resume the service it maintained before the strike, puts the responsibility for the poor service squarely upon the company, labor leaders say.

The men in their offer agreed not to insist on recognition of the union or the reinstatement of the nine men discharged, but asked that a grievance committee be received to arbitrate the cases of these men. No increase of wages was asked in the latest offer but minor readjustment of working hours was asked.

The company will appeal from Judge Dibell's decision to the state supreme court.

HONEYMOON AT THE FAIR

Miss Nellie Olson of McGrath, Minn., and Norman Dahlan of Harmony, Minn., seized the opportunity to get married while they were attending the interstate fair in this city this morning. The young people came in on a special train from Minnesota with many other fair visitors and made their way straight to the county clerk's office to obtain a license and from there they went before Judge John Brindley, who performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. The young couple immediately began their honeymoon at the fair grounds.

NEW YORK GETS SERIES OPENER

First of World's Championship Games to Be Played in the Metropolis

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The National Baseball commission decided this afternoon to hold the first game of the world series between the Giants and the Red Sox in New York, Tuesday, October 8.

The second game of the series will be played the next day at Boston.

It was decided that each team management, under the separate league direction, will control the sale of tickets for games in its city.

Umpires Picked

O'Loughlin and Evans will represent the American league on the diamond and Rigler and Klem will officiate for the National league.

An agreement was made that the two teams will spend the night after each game in the city in which the game was played, making all trips in the forenoon.

The decision of the opening date was determined by flipping a coin. New York wanted Tuesday, October 8. Boston wanted Monday, October 7. Garry Herrmann, president of the commission, flipped. The same method was used in selecting the city in which to open the series.

By opening on Tuesday, Brush's Giants will have six days' rest from their own strenuous National league season. This was not regarded as of so much importance as the choice of the park in which the opener is to be played. Both leagues were extremely anxious to win this point, for the opening day's crowds are always a big factor in the result of the first game. And the first game, as generally acknowledged, is the most important of the series.

The agreement on traveling arrangements was made to eliminate any possibility of one team gaining an advantage in sleeping and eating. It had been proposed that two games be played in each city before moving to the other, the players having objected strenuously to the daily moving. The players still object to traveling every day, but they cannot complain that their opponents have an advantage.

MRS. LA FOLLETTE
SPEAKS AT FAIR

Will Talk on Equal Suffrage in Grandstand Friday Afternoon

Mrs. R. M. La Follette and Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans of Boston, will address the crowds at the Inter-State fair Friday afternoon. They will speak on the equal suffrage question and will deliver their speeches in the grandstand in the intervals in the fair program. Permission to conduct the woman suffrage campaign on the fair grounds was granted the arrangement committee of the local suffrage association by the Inter-State fair officials today.

Both women will also address audiences down town Friday evening. It is not yet decided whether they will speak on some of the downtown street corners or in some hall. If the weather is favorable it is probable that they will speak in the open air.

Mrs. La Follette, wife of Senator La Follette, bears the reputation of being one of the most fluent women talkers in the United States and will undoubtedly be greeted by large audiences. Her co-worker in the votes for women cause, Mrs. Evans, has won no little fame in the east as the author of the minimum wage law recently passed by the legislature of Massachusetts and is a well known magazine writer.

G. O. P. PARTY SPLIT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 25.—The republican and democratic state conventions which opened yesterday, will conclude this afternoon. The democrats remained in session until after midnight and the platform convention wrestled all night with the various planks. The Wilson-Bryan faction is in control.

The republican delegates this afternoon will split into standpatters and progressives after the convention has refused to endorse the 13 electors favored by the Taft faction. The two factions will probably nominate separate electors and file them with Secretary of State Jordan, who is expected to put both on the republican ballot under the sub-headings: "Republicans favoring Taft," and "Republicans favoring Roosevelt."

PLAGUE COSTS BILLION

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—"Tuberculosis has cost society over one billion dollars on the present male population between the ages of 20 and 60, by curtailing the productive years of workmen."

This was the startling statement made before the convention of the American Hospital association made here today by Prof. Clover, head of the department of insurance mathematics at the University of Michigan.

CZAR CLAIMS SPITZBERGEN

LONDON, Sept. 25.—A Russian expedition has annexed part of the island of Spitzbergen in the czar's name, according to a message from Copenhagen today. The disputed district is said to be rich in gold. International complications are likely.

SICK OF POLITICS

SOUTHAMPTON, Sept. 25.—"I'm sick being bothered about politics said John D. Archbold just before sailing for home today on the White Star liner Majestic and he stationed three men at his cabin door to keep off interviewers."

FIRE BUG CONFESSES

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The police today announced that they had a written confession from Frank Miller, 34, who admitted firing fifteen buildings within the last two years in this city.

600 DELEGATES
TO ATTEND MEET

One of Largest Conventions Ever Held Here
Opens on October 7

It is expected that 600 delegates will attend the missionary convention which is to be held at the First Methodist church on October 7, 8 and 9 which will be one of the largest conventions ever held here. Representatives from the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin will be here to attend the convention, which, before this year, has been held but once before in this state and that time at Madison.

Women of prominence from the above mentioned states will be in attendance and bishops and others of national reputation will speak at the meetings. All the delegates are women who have given their thought and time to the missionary cause. The missionaries will appear in the costumes of the countries they represent.

The ladies of the First Methodist church wish to publicly thank the ladies of the other churches of the city for their hearty co-operation and assistance in finding places of entertainment for many of the delegates who will attend the missionary convention, for without this assistance the convention could not have been brought here. If there are any other people in this city who are willing to entertain some of the delegates, the committee will be glad to meet with them.

Nelson and Schepke to Explain the Game in Detail at Old
"Y" Building

Illustrating and explaining all the fine points of the game, Art Nelson of Sparta, champion boxer of Wisconsin and Arthur Schepke, his trainer, who formerly fought under the name of Fred Cooley, will give a boxing exhibition at the old Y. M. C. A. hall on King street this evening. Nelson and Schepke, both of whom are expert boxers, will demonstrate the various punches used by the prominent fighters after which they will oppose each other in a four round exhibition boxing match. They may give another exhibition at the same place tomorrow evening.

It is expected that a large number of fans will take this opportunity to see Nelson, who has a good claim to the championship of this state, work out. As Mr. Schepke was formerly in the ring and fought a number of the prominent heavyweights, he will be an able opponent for Nelson and a great exhibition of boxing is assured with these two men as the principals. They will show the style of fighting employed by such famous

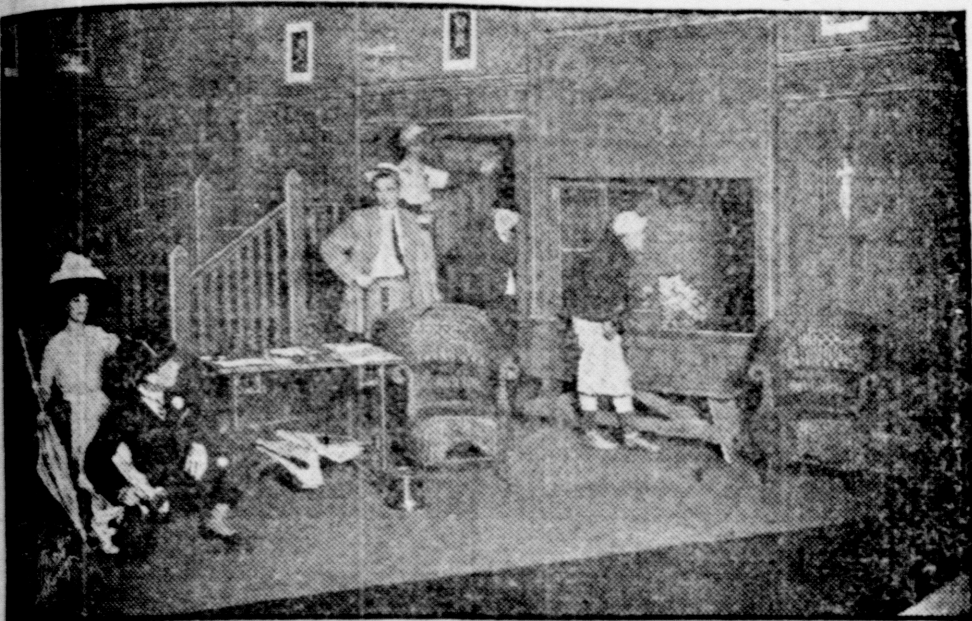

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

In a few moments your hair looks soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant—No falling hair or dandruff.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. It moistens a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health. Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—Advertisement.

POLITICS CAUSES THEFT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—"Politics and being a good fellow brought about my downfall," said William H. Kruse, 36, teller of the German National bank, Covington, Ky., today when he admitted a defalcation of $14,050 of bank funds for which he was arrested by a federal deputy marshal at the bank.

"The figures $14,050 are correct," said Kruse. "I am sorry, but I am glad it is all over. I expect to cover every cent of the shortage and to start life over again." Kruse was released on $10,000 bond. He has a wife and five children. Kruse was recently defeated for city treasurer of Covington.

WILSON ENDORSED BY NEW JERSEY

Governor and His Policies Upheld by Democrats at Primaries Yesterday

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 25.—The defeat of former United States Senator Smith, Jr., at the hands of Judge William Hughes for the democratic nomination for United States senator in yesterday's primaries was overwhelming. The vote of Hughes swamped Smith by more than two to one. In some districts, throughout the state, the proportion was as high as four and five to one. United States Senator Frank O. Briggs had no opposition on the republican ticket and he polled a surprisingly large vote.

Governor Wilson and his policies were upheld in all of the congressional districts. In the fourth district, former Assemblyman Allan B. Walsh, an ardent supporter of the governor, was chosen over the governor's personal choice, George M. K. Monte.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Revised and complete returns from all of the 354 towns and cities of the state shows the following vote for governor in yesterday's state-wide primaries:

Democrats: Governor Foss, 63,018; Joseph C. Pelletier, 36,404. Republicans: Joseph Walker, 53,914; Everett G. Benton, 43,612.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON GETS OUT OF JAIL

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—With a $1 bill and a note from his wealthy father telling him it was the only money he ever earned, Harold F. Hoops walked out of the Bridewell yesterday after 26 days' imprisonment. He had been fined $25 for annoying a girl on the street and had worked out $13 of it in the shops of the prison. His father wrote him today saying that he would pay him as the state did for the time he spent in the prison and would get him some honest work to do. The note from the millionaire fireplace manufacturer also grants forgiveness for the young man's past acts, and asks: "Whether they are forgotten depends upon yourself."

Hoops rode up town on a street car and went directly to his father's private office, where parent and son were closeted for several hours.

BIGGER PENCILS TRIED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 25.—Children's writing classes in all Milwaukee public schools are today being equipped with lead pencils twice the diameter of the ordinary ones. The change is being inaugurated to experiment on the theory of Superintendent Carroll Pearson, former head of the National Educational association, who believes the small modern pencil forces the pupil to "pinch," thus acquiring a cramped style of writing.

BAY GERM CULTURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—"Manhattan is an island surrounded by sewage and New York bay is simply a tremendous culture-tube for the cultivation of the germs of many diseases," Dr. W. J. O'Sullivan declared today, in discussing the injunction suit brought by the state of New York against New Jersey to prevent the Passaic valley commission from building a big trunk sewer which will discharge sewage into New York bay.

In a Hammock With Browning.

The Spring Hill New Era tells of a young lady down there who was visiting with her aunt in the country. She came in late in the afternoon and her aunt asked her where she had been. "In the hammock all the afternoon," she responded, "with my beloved Robert Browning." The aunt eyed her steadily. Then she said: "If I hear of any more such scandalous proceedings I shall write to your mother."—Topeka Capital.

Dolls Stuffed With Fortunes.

The Bank of France destroys old notes by placing them in a vat and subjecting them to the action of certain corrosive acids. In a few moments the banknotes are reduced to pulp. This pulp is sold to toy makers, who use it for stuffing their less expensive dolls, so that the plaything of a child may be stuffed with what was once a fortune.

Whole Difference Is Here.

"The difference between cleverness and ignorance is that the clever ones get what they want and don't waste time wanting what they can't get; and the fools cry for the moon."—"The Forest on the Hill," by Eden Philpotts.

A Billion.

In British computation 1,000,000,000 is a thousand millions. In the United States, and commonly in this country also, it is called a billion, though, etymologically, the British conception that a million millions makes a billion is undoubtedly correct.

Positions for the Fair Sex.

Several bank presidents in the smaller towns are women, as well as clerks, tellers and cashiers. Government experts frequently are among the fair sex, whose deftness of touch makes their fingers especially efficacious for such work as that of the dead letter office.

Valeska Suratt's Answers to Correspondents

THERE are thousands of women today who would give a great deal to be taken from the ranks of the flat-chested, hollow-necked, and charmless, and it is a simple matter, too, if only the right means are employed. Even women who have become mothers and who are for that reason peculiarly susceptible to either lack or loss of bust development may surely acquire the charm they seek. In a half-pint of cold water dissolve two ounces of ruetone and half a cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wine-glass of water after your meals. The ruetone will cost you one dollar at any drug store. Some cases are obstinate but in any case a faithful use of it will bring success.

PRUDENCE.—Yes, a shampoo is absolutely necessary to hair health. The following shampoo, you will find to have a remarkable effect, giving gloss to the hair, taking all dandruff and scalp scales off, and cleansing the pores. Besides, it makes the hair easy to handle.

Dissolve one teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water. When entirely dissolved and the solution has become lukewarm, pour onto the hair and shampoo in the usual manner. The druggist will let you have the eggol for not more than twenty-five cents. It makes an exquisite lather. After rubbing it well into the scalp, so it is perfectly clean, wash the hair thoroughly with plenty of warm water, and rinse with cold water.

MISS FALLING HAIR.—Any woman may absolutely stop this bad condition. The hair roots need nourishment. Hair falls because the hair follicles are drying up. Ordinary hair tonics merely stimulate a trifle, many do not offer the nourishment that the hair needs. Here is a remarkable hair grower and I would advise using no other treatment than this:

With a half pint of water mix half a pint of alcohol. To this add one ounce of beta-quinol. Shake thoroughly, and it will then be ready for use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of water and alcohol.

The beta-quinol you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents.

This formula should be applied very freely on the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the tonic thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

AMANDA S.—I received a letter some time ago from a mother who stated that since using the formula I gave a while ago in these columns, she had been taken for the sister of her 17-year-old son. Crow's feet, wrinkles in forehead, about the mouth and cheeks may be removed. There is but one thing that I know of that does it.

In a large bowl, pour half a pint of hot, but not boiling water. Place this bowl in a pan of water on a slow fire. In a few minutes add two ounces of eggol and continue stirring until all is dissolved. At first it will look like jelly, then it will start to cream. When it does this, remove from the fire, add slowly two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, and stir constantly until thick. Keep in air-tight jar. You should be able to get eggol at any good drug store, and it should not cost you more than fifty cents. Rub in well until cream disappears. This will not grow hair.

E. O. H.—You will have no excuse for pimples or skin eruptions if you will use faithfully the following:

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one-half pint of water, and add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.—Advertisement.

For the Invalid.

A sizeable shoe bag with several pockets is just the thing for the sick room, but not in its original capacity. Pin it firmly to the side of the bed, within reach; then it is convenient for the invalid to slip into its various pockets books, papers, handkerchiefs, or any of the other things which she uses, and which are not only apt to get lost on the bed, but when on the bed give an appearance of disorder.

PLAN HERO FUND FOR GARY NEWSY

Paper-vender Who Offered Leg to Save Girl's Life Is Idol of Hoosier City

GARY, Ind., Sept. 25.—A hero fund to be contributed by the residents of this little city was planned today for William Rugh, praise of whom has been spoken by everyone here since he offered to give up his leg to save the life of Miss Ethel Smith, 18, who was horribly burned about the legs and back while riding a motorcycle recently. Whether the crippled newsboy will be permitted to make this sacrifice to save a girl he has never met, will be decided at a consultation of physicians. In her home on the far west side of Gary, Miss Smith smiled through the expression of pain that marked her pretty face. She has suffered constantly since the accident, but she bears up gamely, believing that she will live. The doctors have told her that she will if skin is obtained to graft on her injured legs and back. And "Bill" Rugh, whom she has seen at his corner selling papers—and pities because he had one twisted, short leg—has made life possible for her.

"They shan't do it, if it means danger for him," she said. "I want to live, but that brave newsboy deserves to live, too. He doesn't even know me, but I know he is a good, brave boy. Everything will be left to Dr. Craig."

The brave "boy" who offered to risk his life to save the girl is 41 years old. He has been in Gary little more than a year. He came here broke and handicapped by a useless leg which he has carried since he was four months old. He has built up a newspaper selling business, and his average earnings are $4 a day. He has money in the bank and every one of his regular customers is his "pal."

It was learned from Rock Island, Ill., whence Bill came to this city, that he made a similar offer there four years ago. A member of the Odd Fellows lodge was burned about the body, and skin was needed to repair the burned places. Bill came forward and offered his stunted leg but lodge members said the man was their brother, and they would rather the skin was taken from their bodies.

HIDE ARMS FROM POLICE

BRUSSELS, Sept. 25.—In anticipation of November's general strike for universal suffrage the police today began a hunt for firearms. Though it is known nearly every workingman is armed, few weapons were found, so effectively were they hidden.

Worth of Education.

Quintilian recommends all parents properly to educate their children, advising them to train their offspring carefully in learning good manners and virtuous exercises, since we commonly retain those qualities in age which we cultivated and possessed in our youth.

Evil in the Betel Nut.

About one-tenth of the human race are betel nut chewers. The nut stains the lips and saliva a bright red, colors the teeth black and in the end destroys them.

POST SHARPSHOOTERS IN HILLS PREPARATORY TO TRYING TO WORK MINES WITH STRIKE BREAKERS

SAL LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 25.

The selection of seventy sharpshooters to be stationed on the hills around the Utah Copper company's mines at Bingham was believed today to mean that the company had determined to force the issue against the 5,000 miners on strike by trying to operate its properties with strike breakers. The fact that the county commissioners, who inspected the company workings yesterday, will immediately order the sheriff to destroy the breastworks erected by strikers, and to disarm everyone in Bingham except deputies, is regarded as significant. It is not denied the move would start serious trouble.

Awful Danger.

Two little children were playing in the bath tub, and the elder thought she saw a sudden danger. "Jump out, Mary!" she cried in great excitement, "jump out this minute. The stopper's come out and you'll run down the pipe if you don't get out quick!"

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Sept. 25.

Lost to one another for thirty years, Louis Dieckman, wealthy grocer here is preparing to leave for Minneapolis to meet his sister, Mrs. Erickson, Minneapolis, who located him through tracing of pension papers of her father who died twelve years ago. The Dieckmann family lived in Fond du Lac thirty years ago, when Mary married and moved away. Louis shifted for himself after his parents went to live at the Soldiers' home at Waupaca and lost trace of his sister. Both parents are now dead. Tracing of pension papers through records at the Soldiers' home told Mrs. Erickson the whereabouts of her brother and a joyful reunion will be held soon. Mrs. Erickson is now the mother of five children.

Read The Story Told By Previous Sections In the Long-Lost, Original Brady War Photographs

The Brady History is not a long, dry, wearisome array of facts but a living picture story with enough explanation to make everything clear and readily understood.

Just as valuable for the boy and girl in school as for the keen, alert man of affairs. Its brevity, its intense interest, make this an educational work of untold value. You get the actual facts taken at first-hand by the camera while reading a narrative more thrilling than a clever novel. Just to glance through these photographs will give you a truer idea of the great Civil War than days and months spent in painful perusals of old-fashioned, dry-as-dust histories, or if you were there yourself—for you could be in only one place at one time, while Brady and his daring followers were everywhere.

RUSHFORD, MINN.

The Imperial Harp orchestra furnished music for a dance which took place last Friday evening at the Elite after the usual weekly band concert. Mr. W. S. Albrant, manager of the Rushford Woolen Mills, transacted business connected with his work at La Crosse last week. Odon Stensing, who for some time has been at Towner, Minn., returned home last week. A young lady from Choice, Miss Gina Olson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Olsen, was taken suddenly ill last week and was hurried to a La Crosse hospital where a successful operation for appendicitis was performed and Miss Olson is reported to be recovering nicely. Prof. Lambert was a business visitor at La Crosse last Monday. Mrs. Andrew Egan visited friends at Peterson last week. Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson were down from Peterson last Monday to call briefly upon friends. The Misses Pearl Colbenson, Inga Toftstad and Mattie Larson were Peterson visitors last Wednesday. Miss Julia Olsen, a former Rushford young lady, who held for years the position of assistant postmistress and later proved a very efficient saleslady at Julsruds store, but who has been a nurse at the hospital for the insane at Independence, Iowa, has been a welcome guest of her many friends here. She returned to Independence last Monday.

Ole Reishus, A. Vaagen and Oas Hasserud went over to Preston last Thursday to procure their supply of election ballots and also to visit the fair then in progress.

Mr. E. O. Sogla of Bratsberg vicinity was a Rushford business caller last week.

One of Highland Prairie's enterprising young men, Helmer Dammen, who is learning the plumbing trade over at Harmony, went down to La Crosse last week to visit his brother who is confined in a hospital there.

Ed Fenstermacher has moved his family from rooms over the Elite theater into the cottage on Mill street, owned formerly by Mrs. Stroud of Mabel but lately purchased by Sivert Toftstad. Mr. Ray Shirven has moved his family into the rooms formerly occupied by Mr. Fenstermacher.

There occurred at 3 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon, at the Lutheran church, over at South Fork, the marriage of Miss Hilda Howard and Mr. Adolph Hagen, both of that neighborhood. Rev. B. B. Ostrem of Houston performed the ceremony, after which a reception was given the happy couple.

Mrs. C. Smaby and little son Glen were guests last Tuesday of Peterson friends.

The Sundby home on Maple street has as a guest this week Mrs. J. B. Anderson of Houston.

Miss Florence Egan of South Ferry street has for some time been the guest of her brother Dan and his family at Dubuque, arriving home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Laugen, who have been guests of relatives at Sioux Falls, Iowa, and Jackson, Minn., have arrived home.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Kelley and two daughters of Chicago have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hennsey and other of their relatives the last two weeks. One of the Misses Kelley is a very successful lawyer, having been admitted to the bar about two years ago.

If the weather man is not too busy to give a fair day next Sunday, September 22, there will be given a picnic by the pupils of the Norwegian school in the Grinland district, near Bratsberg. Pupils and teacher have prepared a program which will be given in the school house and the dinner will be served on the school grounds.

Mr. Neil Henry of Fremont is thanking his lucky stars that he is still alive after the runaway in which he figured prominently last week. He had been to Lewistown and when about two miles out on his homeward return met an auto, at which one of his horses became frightened, leaping suddenly to one side, throwing the buggy over into a ditch and hurling Mr. Henry out of the seat. One rib was broken and other minor injuries received. The team ran away and in some manner one of them was badly cut and bruised. At last reports Mr. Henry was resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Last Thursday was also an unlucky day for one of Peterson's citizens, P. S. Lystjord, "the Peterson paint slinger," and his trusty motorcycle being in somewhat of a wreck and M. B. Gullickson's dog also a party badly mixed up with the debris. While Mr. Lystjord was rounding a corner at a pretty good rate of speed, said canine rushed in front of him and the impact resulted in a badly cut arm for the motorcycle rider, a badly bent machine and as a musical climax a chorus of expressive howls from the dog. Mr.

Lystjord's injuries are not serious, the cycle can be repaired, while the lesson to the canine will doubtless prove of lasting benefit.

Charles Nicholas, proprietor of the Elite theater was a business caller at Caledonia last Tuesday.

Mangus Reishus was a business visitor at Dexter the fore part of last week.

A Stockton gentleman, Robert Barkley, was in this city Sunday.

Miss Bernice Robertson has gone to Milwaukee to resume her studies at Downer college.

Mrs. F. Drake is down from Lanesboro visiting relatives.

Edwin Haslerud of North Prairie has resumed his studies at Red Wing seminary.

Rev. and Mrs. Sweger are Peterson visitors, Mrs. Sweger being a former Peterson lady.

"Father, I can beat anything in college. Well, don't worry, son. I'll see to it that you'll have plenty of rugs to keep you in trim this summer."

A good way for a man to discover that he doesn't know a woman is to marry her.

If all epitaphs had to be truthful it would be better to leave some tombstones blank.

A woman's idea of a rival is another woman who tries to have better clothes than hers.

ELECTION PLEASES WILSON
NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Before he boarded the train for Hartford, Conn. today Gov. Wilson was asked for a comment on the New Jersey primaries in which James Smith, Jr., was overwhelmingly defeated.
“Was anybody surprised?” the governor demanded. Some one suggested that Smith might have been surprised, and Gov. Wilson said, grimly: “I cannot speak for him. The meaning of that primary was that the bosses cannot rule New Jersey.”

U. S. TO QUIET HAYTI
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Hayti, the “black republic,” is the real target of the armed demonstration by American marines in Santo Domingo ordered yesterday by the president, officials here admitted today. Intervention in Hayti, similar to that in Nicaragua, is deemed almost certain. Within three weeks the marines will be on Haitian soil, ostensibly to protect Dominican customs houses.

Just a Moment Brother!

We wanted to tell you that one party was here this week to buy a residence, and we had nothing on our list to suit him. Maybe yours would.

Another party wanted to rent a property, and we could not fix him out either. Possibly if you had yours on our list here it would now be rented.

Did you know that there are 5,000 homes in La Crosse, and that you stand one chance out of 5,000 of having him find you?

We charge you nothing if we do you no good. Our income depends on the service we render you. Why shouldn't we work to your interest?

Did you ever think about our location here? Anyone doing business in the city is almost certain to come to the corner of Fourth and Main.

Write us, telephone us, or come and see us.

YANKS AND RED SOX SPLIT EVEN

New York Wins the First Game, but Champs Take Second; Naps Beat the Tigers

AMERICAN LEAGUE
New York 5-1; Boston 2-3
BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Yankees trounced the American league leaders in the first of yesterday's double header 5 to 2, but the Red Sox captured the second 3 to 1, the visitors narrowly escaping a shut out.

The Yanks won the opener in the first inning, when four hits, two of which were triples, a walk and a sacrifice, netted four runs. The second game went eight innings, when darkness interfered. O'Brien and Caldwell were the opposing pitchers and both kept hits few and scattered and the score a tie until Hendrickson doubled. Yerkes sacrificed, Speaker and Lewis doubled, resulting in two runs.

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—Detroit and Cleveland began a series of five games here yesterday with the leadership of the second division as the stake. The Naps took first blood 7 to 4. The other four games will be played in Cleveland. A boot by Louder and a wild heave by Onslow blew the game in the first where clean fielding would have retired the visitors scoreless. Blanding pitched a tight game except when Tyrus Cobb was at the bat. Ty driving in all the Tigers' counters, though he failed to get help enough himself to trap the plate. Score: R H E Cleveland . . . 400000201—7 12 0 Detroit . . . 100000020—3 8 4

Batteries: Blanding and O'Neill; Jameson, Lake, Onslow and Kocher. Chicago 6-2; St. Louis 2-2
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—The White Sox took the first game of yesterday's double header from the St. Louis Browns by a count of 6 to 2, while the second game went into a ten inning tie 2 to 2, darkness stopping the play. Walsh outpitched Powell in the opener, the latter being batted for four hits and three runs in the seventh. The second game was a pitchers' battle between Benz and Hamilton with honors even. Scores:

BADGERS ARE GIVEN SIGNAL PRACTICE

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 25.—The second day's practice for the Badger freshmen squad added some thirty candidates to the fifteen that reported for the first day workout. Yesterday brought any amount of good material into the limelight and Coach Wilce was more optimistic in regards to Wisconsin's chances for a strong freshman squad.

The varsity squad met for practice twice yesterday in the morning and afternoon. This afternoon they went through three hours of stiff signal practice and Coach Juneau gave the end men considerable attention.

BAN APPLETON FLIRTS

NEENAH, Wis., Sept. 25.—Neenah police officials today issued an edict against flirting. The order is primarily directed at girls from Appleton, the college city adjoining Neenah, because Appleton girls invade this city searching for companionship of Neenah boys claiming college youths of Appleton are "tight wads." Twelve Appleton girls were escorted by police to the city limits last night and told to "go home and behave."

Motorcycle Notes

Donald McKie, one of the four Atlanta, Ga., motorcyclists touring Europe says that the roads in Denmark are far superior to the roads in any other country.

A new ordinance has been passed in Flint, Mich., making it unlawful for a motorcyclist to carry a passenger on the tank or handlebars of his machine.

Miss "Cy" Woodman, an enthusiastic girl motorcyclist of New York City, recently departed on a trip to the Pacific coast on her two-wheeler. Gold medals were recently awarded twelve Reading, Pa., motorcyclists for successfully completing the annual endurance run of the motorcycle club of that city.

Eight of the nine rural routes out of P'inceton, Ill., are covered by carrier riding motorcycles. The other is covered by auto.

A new twenty-four hour record has been made by an Australian motorcyclist—P. O'Brien—who rode 522 miles. Five hundred and seventeen was the previous record for a full day.

Father Souldard of Rapid River, Mich., is believed to be the first priest in that state to use a motorcycle to visit his parishioners in outlying districts of the city.

Volney E. Davis who has crossed the continent seven times on his motorcycle is traveling east through Nevada on another coast to coast jaunt.

A vacation jaunt of 6,000 miles on a motorcycle is being planned by Claude Witmer of South Bend, Ind.

THEATRE NEWS

Putting It Over
The wonders of European travel entranced but did not dazzle Miss Helen Holmes, one of the principals of the cast of Frank Hatch's comedy success, "Putting It Over," which will appear at the La Crosse Theatre tonight. Unlike many Americans touring the mother lands, Miss Holmes did not attempt to voice her feeling that the United States was superior after all. But once she was forced to "go one better" than the voluble guide. He showed the blind fish in the blue grotto in Capri with the intimation that America possessed no such marvel.

"Humph, that's nothing," remarked Miss Holmes. "I've seen blind mules that never reach daylight, 3,000 feet under the ground in my uncle's mine at Grass Valley, Cal."

Crosse Theater tomorrow night. The author, Wm. A. McGuire, has not mined matters in his play nor does he lack detail in the graphic portrayal of the frightful consequences of the divorce evil.

By this it must not be assumed that his play is gruesome; on the contrary, it might properly be styled an entertaining, moral lesson with intense situations; climaxes that thrill and are wonderfully impressive.

While the pathos is abundant and the heart interest abounds the comedy element is by no means neglected.

"Faust"

In Manley and Campbell's forthcoming production of Faust, Goethe's great tragedy, the company is headed by that successful romantic actor, Mr. George C. Wakefield, who, in portraying the character of Mephisto, adheres to Mr. Lewis Morrison's version of the same part.

Mr. Wakefield is, perhaps today, the tallest actor on the American stage, measuring six feet seven inches in height and is ably supported ed by an adequate cast. "Faust" will be presented at the La Crosse Theater Friday, Sept. 27.

FANS 25—LOSES GAME

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 25.—Pitcher Al Powers, a semi-professional twirler, is "cussing" his luck today following his feat yesterday by striking out twenty-five batsmen in one game and yet losing the game. Powers' team was beaten 7 to 2. Powers' catcher was the one at fault. He got twenty put outs, three assists and seven errors.

Not until the eighth inning of the second game did the Red Sox show any class against the lowly Highlanders. Two doubles and a base on balls off Caldwell, followed by a sacrifice, gave the champions two runs and the game. New York copped the first contest, 5 to 2.

Nettled by the fans, Umpire O'Brien made the Browns, and the White Sox play in the dark. He called a tie game when the pitchers were unable to locate the plate. The White Sox were winners in the first of the double header.
